

CREATE A CULTURE OF SECURITY IN YOUR ORGANIZATION

5 ways to keep security front and center in your organization

SECURITY-MINDED LEADERSHIP

For security to be important to staff, security must be important to leadership. Leadership must meet regularly to stay on top of best practices and policy.

BRAND SECURITY REPUTATION

Your organization's brand reputation should extend beyond a slogan. Each person in each department of the organization must work together to make the company's security policy work.

PERSONAL SECURITY REPUTATION

Each person within the organization should consider their personal security reputation. There can be very real and personal consequences to cybersecurity mistakes, even mistakes made at work.

PROMOTE PROFESSIONAL TRAINING

All staff should be encouraged to engage in professional training and continued education, including appropriate security-related training & networking events. This type of training is not just for IT professionals.

ANNUAL COMPANY- WIDE SECURITY TRAINING

Annual security training ensures that all staff understands company policy and what is expected of them. Security should not be an annual thing, though. Awareness should be 24 / 7 / 365.