

Lateral Phishing: When Internal Emails Can't Be Trusted

From: Trusted Coworker...?

Lateral phishing occurs when a cybercriminal gains control of an internal account to send phishing emails to other employees, vendors, or customers. These emails look legitimate but are meant to steal credentials or spread malware.